

BROWN UNIVERSITY
WARREN ALPERT MEDICAL SCHOOL
Lifespan Academic Medical Center
(Rhode Island and The Miriam Hospitals)

Surgical Pathology Fellowship

Description: The Department of Pathology at the Rhode Island and The Miriam Hospitals have established a one-year fellowship program in Surgical Pathology. The program offers advanced training in all aspects of surgical pathology with an emphasis on the fellow assuming a graduated junior attending role. As such, in addition to the usual case management demands and responsibilities for multidisciplinary conferences, the fellow will be involved actively in mentoring residents and medical students in the department. Clinically-based research is strongly encouraged and there is also an opportunity for collaborative research efforts with campus-based faculty at the Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University.

Requirements: Applicants should have completed an AP or AP/CP residency training program on commencement of the fellowship. Applicant must be eligible for employment in the United States.

Applications: Evgeny Yakirevich, MD, Director of Surgical Pathology Fellowship, Department of Pathology, Rhode Island Hospital, 593 Eddy Street, Providence RI 02903.

Phone: (401) 444-2780 • Fax: (401) 444-8514 • E-mail: eyakirevich@lifespan.org

Rhode Island Hospital/The Miriam Hospital is an EEO/AA employer and encourages applications from minorities, women and protected persons.